The Sweetness of Appreciation

Healing Nature

The essence of enjoying people for their uniqueness. To encourage respect and appreciation for people and their intrinsic value. For when intellectual criticism needs to be transformed into acceptance of others, their individual and differing expressions. Allows a sweetness and openness to come into interactions with others rather than judgmental attitudes.

Spiritual Qualities

Our expanding consciousness can make the mind strong and able to make clear discernments. However when relating to people a basic respect for each Soul and its journey is a solid premise for positive exchanges. Being able to do mental gymnastics is not a sign of expanded consciousness, just as not being intellectually eloquent is not a sign that a person hasn't developed their mind or their spiritual being. Arrogance can lead to spiritual inertia. If we believe we are better than anyone else we live in a self made illusion.
